Afrodescendant Project Administrative Assistant - Project Leaving No One Behind: Reduction of Adolescent Pregnancy in the Afro-descendant, Creole, Garifuna and Miskito communities in selected municipalities of Costa Rica

Background information

UNFPA is the lead UN agency for delivering a world where every pregnancy is wanted, every childbirth is safe and every young person's potential is fulfilled. UNFPA's new strategic plan (2022- 2025), focuses on three transformative results: end unmet need for family planning; to end preventable maternal deaths; and end gender-based violence and harmful practices. In a world where fundamental human rights are at risk, we need principled and ethical staff, who embody these international norms and standards, and who will defend them courageously and with full conviction. UNFPA is seeking candidates that transform, inspire, and deliver high impact and sustained results; we need staff who are transparent, exceptional in how they manage the resources entrusted to them and who commit to deliver excellence in programme results.

People of African descent continue to face racism and marginalization as part of the legacy of slavery and colonialism. In the case of Central America, it is estimated that around 10% of the total population self-identifies as Afro-descendant. According to their socioeconomic and demographic profile, Afro-descendants face significant inequalities and equity gaps that impact their development (ECLAC/UNFPA, 2020a).

Some socioeconomic indicators and data from censuses and national statistics show that this situation tends to be even more complex for Afro-descendant communities and peoples in rural areas. Also, across the region, women, adolescents, and youth, especially from these left-behind groups- Afro-descendants, Creole, Garifuna, and Miskito-, face critical constraints to the exercising of their sexual and reproductive health and reproductive rights and the right to live a life free from violence, linked to a lack of bodily autonomy. Adolescent pregnancy is still a challenge in Central America, and particularly affected adolescents and girls who belong to most left behind population groups. While the adolescent fertility rate regional average is estimated at 60.7 per 1,000 women aged 15-19 years, the fertility rate in adolescents who belong to Afro-descendants, Creole, Garifuna, and Miskito communities exceeds the regional average.

In this regard, the Government of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg and the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) are joining efforts to implement the Regional Project "Leaving No One Behind: Reduction of Adolescent Pregnancy in the Afro-descendant, Creole, Garifuna and Miskito communities in selected municipalities of the Central America Caribbean Coast". This initiative aims to reduce adolescent

	pregnancy by empowering women and youth from Afro-descendants' tribal people, Creole, Garifuna, and Miskito communities in selected municipalities of the Central America Caribbean Coast. The proposal seeks to address the core problem of racism and ethnic discrimination, as a driver of adolescent pregnancy. The main outcome of the project is to contribute to the reduction of adolescent pregnancy in selected municipalities of Central America Coasts, particularly rural areas in the following countries: Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, Belize, and Guatemala, and where the adolescent pregnancy and pregnancies in girls under the age of 15 are still a great challenge. As a result, this initiative will contribute to the Sustainable Development Goals and the full implementation of the ICPD Programme of Action, and will also contribute to UNFPA's three transformative results: ending preventable maternal deaths, ending unmet need for family planning, and ending gender-based violence against women and girls, particularly Afro- descendant's population In addition with a specific territory focus where Afro-descendants, Creole, Garifuna, and Miskito populations are settled the project is framed around International human rights standards and will also contribute to the programme of activities of the international decade for people of African descent. For the implementation of this project, a working team has been identified, made up of UNFPA LACRO and the country offices of Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, Guatemala and Belize.
